Taoist

Guardian · Ravager · Spirit Cultivator

The Taoist walks the boundary between the mortal world and the spirit realm, cultivating inner power through discipline, calligraphy, and spiritual bonds. She is a hybrid warrior-mystic: capable with blade and talisman, attuned to invisible forces, and accompanied by guardian spirits that amplify her every action.

The Taoist uses Spheres of Power for her casting framework and integrates with the Guardian system for her spiritual companions. Her Ofuda — spiritually inscribed talismans — serve as her core offense and utility engine, operating alongside her spherecasting as a parallel system.

Class Features

Trade Tradition

If this is the Taoist's first level, she chooses a trade tradition. Her trade rank is adept. A trade tradition represents the background and discipline through which the Taoist learned to blend martial skill, spiritual cultivation, and spherecasting — such as occult warrior, wandering cultivator, battlefield mystic, or spirit hunter.

If this is not the Taoist's first level, she instead chooses one trade talent from the Vocation sphere as a bonus talent.

Without Trade Traditions

At 1st level the Taoist chooses four class skills. These chosen skills are always treated as class skills for her, in addition to the standard class skill list.

Blended Training (Ex)

The Taoist combines martial training with spherecasting in a hybrid framework. She gains Blended Training as described in the Spheres of Power rules: each rank grants one combat or magic talent, chosen at the time it is gained.

She gains her first rank of Blended Training at 1st level and gains an additional rank at every level thereafter, as shown on the class table. At 1st level she also gains a bonus of +2 magic talents from her casting tradition.

For the purpose of meeting sphere prerequisites and selecting talents, the Taoist's practitioner modifier is her casting ability modifier (typically Charisma, Intelligence, or Wisdom, as determined by her casting tradition).

Casting (Sp)

The Taoist is a Low Caster. She selects a casting tradition at 1st level and gains a spell pool equal to her caster level + her casting ability modifier. Her caster level equals her Taoist class level, as shown on the class table.

She begins play with one base sphere of her choice and gains access to additional spheres and talents through Blended Training and Ravager Arts. She may use any sphere ability she has access to in accordance with normal Spheres of Power rules.

Spirit Training

At 1st level the Taoist gains the Soul sphere as bonus feats.

Spirit Wards (Ex)

When unarmored and unencumbered, the Taoist adds her Charisma bonus (if any) to her AC and her CMD. In addition she gains a +1 bonus to AC and CMD at 4th level. This bonus increases by +1 for every four Taoist levels thereafter, up to a maximum of +5 at 20th level.

Channel Energy

The Taoist may channel energy as the cleric class feature a total number of times per day equal to 3 + her casting ability modifier, using her casting ability modifier in place of Charisma when determining the associated saving throw DC. She must choose whether to channel positive or negative energy when she gains this ability. Once made, this choice cannot be changed.

Guardian

A Taoist begins play with the aid of a powerful spirit entity called a guardian. The guardian forms a spiritual link with the Taoist and empowers her techniques. Guardians do not appear as creatures or ectoplasmic bodies — they exist as inner spiritual partners. A guardian shares one language with the Taoist.

A Taoist's currently active guardian is called her active guardian. In addition she has two passive guardians, as well as additional reserve guardians equal to her practitioner modifier. She may change her active guardian as a swift action. Swapping a passive guardian with a reserve guardian requires a full-round action. At 7th and 13th level she gains the ability to store one additional passive guardian.

Guardians never manifest physically on the battlefield. They exist as spiritual companions, empowering the Taoist's actions and awareness from within. Their presence may appear as brief aura shifts or spiritual impressions, but they never function as independent creatures.

See the Guardian chapter for full rules on Guardian subtypes, progression, and talents.

Ofuda

At 1st level the Taoist gains the Ofuda class feature — her core offensive and utility engine. Ofuda are spiritually inscribed talismans prepared in batches during a 1-hour ritual.

Quick Reference: Batches per day = caster level. Ofuda per batch = Practitioner Ability Modifier.
Modifications per ofuda = 1 per 4 class levels, maximum 5.

See the Ofuda chapter for full rules on batches, modifications, delivery modes, and Ofuda Ravager Arts.

Ravager Arts

The Taoist's training allows her to perform unique arts. At 2nd level and every two levels thereafter she learns one art from the following list. Unless otherwise noted each art may be selected once.

Sutra Caster (2nd Level)

At 2nd level the Taoist learns to channel spiritual energy through written sutras and incantations. She treats her Taoist level as her caster level for the purpose of Craft (Calligraphy) interactions with sphere effects, and may use Craft (Calligraphy) in place of Spellcraft for identifying effects she delivers through written or inscribed means.

Ravager's Lore (3rd Level)

At 3rd level the Taoist gains a +2 bonus on Knowledge (arcana), Knowledge (planes), and Knowledge (religion) checks. She may make these checks untrained.

Inner Grace (3rd Level)

At 3rd level the Taoist gains a bonus to all saving throws equal to her Charisma modifier.

Ravager Arts List

The following arts are available to the Taoist. Arts tagged (Ofuda) expand the Ofuda system and count as Ravager Arts selections.

Cross Training (Ex)

Requires 5th level. Select one 1st-level class feature from another class. It functions as though your level in that secondary class were half your actual class level (minimum 1). Features with limited uses scale accordingly. You must have narratively trained with or bonded with a representative of that class. May only be selected once.

Advanced Training (Ex)

Requires 7th level and Cross Training. Deepen your understanding of the secondary class chosen via Cross Training. You gain additional class features from that class functioning as though your level in it were 2 lower than your actual class level. May only be selected once per Cross Training selection.

Ki Cultivator

Gain Cultivate Ki as a bonus feat.

Enchanted Wards

Gain +1 enchantment bonus to your Spirit Wards AC bonus. This bonus increases by +1 at 4th level and every 4 levels thereafter.

True Pure Body

Your studies allow you to purify your body of impurities. Gain full hit dice for each class level and recalculate your hit points.

Kindled Essence

Kindle your akashic spark, granting you an essence pool equal to your class level plus your casting modifier.

Akashic Understanding

Unlock the following chakras: hands, head, feet, headband, shoulder, wrist, belt, neck. Your veil list contains all veils from the Promethean and Vizier lists, plus: Oni Sword Master's Pauldron, Reaper's Glaive, and Warlock's Warblade.

Energy Nexus

As a full-round action, convert up to your casting modifier worth of one energy type (spell points, ki, or essence) into another energy type you can use.

72 Transformations

As a full-round action, polymorph into the form of a personally defeated creature. You may maintain a number of known forms equal to your practitioner modifier.

Extra Guardian

Gain one additional reserve guardian slot.

Advanced Shikigami

Your guardian's abilities advance. Gain one additional guardian talent for your active guardian subtype.

Cleanse

As a standard action, remove one condition affecting you or an adjacent ally. Usable a number of times per day equal to your casting modifier.

Temple Dancer

Gain the Performance sphere's Dance package (from Spheres of Guile) as a bonus feat.

Third Eye

Your spiritual cultivation sharpens your awareness beyond mundane senses. You may use Sense Motive in place of Perception for any check involving hidden intentions, emotional states, concealed creatures, or supernatural presences. Additionally you gain an insight pool equal to your casting modifier. You may spend one point as a standard action to ask the GM one truthful question about a creature you can observe: its emotional state, whether it is what it appears to be, or whether it presents immediate danger. The pool refreshes after 8 hours of rest.

Spell Counter

While martial focused, spend 1 point of ether and 1 spell point to return a projectile-based magical attack to its sender as an immediate action.

Channel Feat

Gain one feat that modifies channel energy as a bonus feat, treating your Taoist level as your cleric level for qualifying.

Extra Batch (Ofuda)

You may craft 1 additional batch of ofuda per day. May be selected multiple times; effects stack.

Extra Modification (Ofuda)

When crafting a batch, you may apply 1 additional modification to that batch even if it exceeds your normal per-ofuda maximum. May be selected multiple times; effects stack.

Runed Ofuda (Ofuda)

You may apply (rune) talents from the Rune sphere to your ofuda, treating the ofuda as an appropriate surface or bearer. A rune inscribed on an ofuda triggers when thrown, affixed, or activated. Requires the Rune sphere.

Mystic Alignment (Ofuda)

You gain martial focus whenever you use an ofuda to successfully hit a creature with a ranged attack, or when you deliver a sphere ability through an ofuda that affects a creature.

Bound Ink (Ofuda)

When creating a batch, you may bind it to a creature whose name, blood, or possession you have access to (GM discretion). Bound ofuda may affect that creature as if within range, ignoring line of sight and distance up to 1 mile per caster level. Only one sympathetic link may be maintained at a time.

Ink-Master's Precision (Ofuda)

Gain ranks in Craft (Calligraphy) equal to your caster level, or your existing ranks increase by +2 (whichever is higher). For every 5 ranks in this skill, increase the DC of any save against an ofuda modification by +1 (max +3).

Phase-Scripted Ofuda (Ofuda)

Ofuda you throw or affix ignore cover and concealment (but not total cover). Once per round you may throw an ofuda through a wall or door to strike a target you are aware of on the other side, as long as the path is not completely obstructed. Does not bypass magical barriers.

Inkflow Adept (Ofuda)

You may craft ofuda as a move action instead of a full-round action or 1-hour ritual. Usable once per day, plus one additional time per 5 caster levels.

Mystical Approach (Ofuda)

You may draw or retrieve an ofuda as a free action and may throw them using your casting ability modifier instead of Dexterity for ranged attack rolls. You may also deliver a sphere ability through a thrown ofuda as part of casting the ability.

Ofuda

Taoist Class Feature

Overview

At 1st level, the Taoist gains the Ofuda class feature — her core offensive and utility engine. Ofuda are spiritually inscribed talismans prepared in batches during a 1-hour ritual. Each batch shares the same set of modifications, chosen during preparation. The Taoist may reset her modifications to a different configuration whenever she prepares a new batch.

Resource Summary

Resource	Value
Batches per day	Equal to caster level
Ofuda per batch	Equal to Practitioner Ability Modifier (PAM)
Mods per ofuda	1 per 4 class levels (max 5)
Mod list access	Full list available from 1st level
Prep time	1 hour; can reset to a different configuration

Modifications per Ofuda

Class Level	Mods per Ofuda
1st-3rd	1
4th-7th	2
8th-11th	3
12th-15th	4
16th-20th	5 (maximum)

Delivery Modes

Each ofuda may be used in one of three ways. The modification load determines what each delivery mode does — the same strip can support the jian, a target, or a position depending on intent.

Standard Action — Throw: Draw and throw an ofuda at a target within range as a ranged attack. Offensive modifications trigger on hit.

Full-Round Action — Placement: Deliberately throw an ofuda to land on a surface, object, or position within 30 ft. The ofuda sits and waits, triggering on condition or remaining persistent. Ideal for Barrier, Substitute, Harmony, Storage, and trap-style Seal placements.

Full-Round Action — Jian Application: Apply an ofuda to your jian sword. The modifications become active on the weapon for 1 minute per class level. Only one ofuda may be applied to the jian at a time; applying a new one replaces the previous.

The Batch System

During her 1-hour preparation ritual, the Taoist inscribes one or more batches of ofuda. All ofuda within a batch share the same modifications. She chooses which modifications are active on a given ofuda at the moment of use, up to her current per-ofuda maximum.

This means the Taoist is not solving for one perfect strip — she is assembling a suite of specialized loadouts for different tactical situations. A Taoist with a high caster level carries many batches; a Taoist with a high PAM carries more ofuda per batch with room for more mods on each one.

Example Batch Loadouts

- Jian Buff Package: Elemental + Vampiric + Amberwoven + Razor Trimmed + Mana-Infused Ink
- Anti-Caster Control: Void-Infused + Seal + Sleep + Gravity
- Battlefield Support: Harmony + Petition + Steel Decree + Glimmer Veil
- Spirit Ward Placement: Barrier + Substitute + Resistance
- Anti-Undead Strike: Jade-Infused + Seal + Amped

Modifications

The Taoist has access to all modifications below from 1st level. The full list is her palette; the per-ofuda cap and batch count are what create the decision space.

Name	Effect
Amberwoven	Add caster level as bonus to attack and damage rolls with the ofuda.
Razor Trimmed	Deals 1d4 bleed on hit. Increases by +1 per 5 caster levels.
Lapis	Ofuda becomes ghost touch, striking incorporeal creatures without penalty.
Elemental	Choose an energy type at prep. Deals 1d6 + 1/2 CL of that energy type instead of normal damage.
Sleep	Will save or target falls asleep for 1 round per 2 CL (max 5). Mind-affecting.
Vampiric	When the ofuda deals damage, regain HP equal to half damage dealt (minimum 1).
Steel Decree	Target gains armor bonus equal to 1 per 4 ranks in Craft (Calligraphy) (min +1, max +5) for 1 min/CL.
Barrier	On striking target or surface, manifests a force barrier granting THP equal to CL + casting modifier. Lasts 1 min/CL or until depleted.
Seal	Will save or immobilized 1 round. Summoned/outsider subtypes take -2 on the save.
Jade-Infused	Treated as aligned against evil and undead; deals +1d6 damage to such creatures (as bane).
Void-Infused	Target takes -2 penalty to caster level for 1 round. Spell resistance applies.
Sloth	Fort save or movement halved and -2 to Dex-based checks for 1 minute.
Amped	Delivers a Mana Amp talent as if cast directly. Costs spell points as normal.
Resistance	Grants resistance 5 to one energy type. Increases by +5 at CL 10 and CL 15. Lasts 1 min/CL.
Substitute	If bearer is struck in combat, ofuda shatters and creates a single decoy (as mirror image). Triggers once per ofuda.
Harmony	Allies within 10 ft of bearer gain +1 morale bonus to attack rolls and saves vs. fear. Lasts 1 minute.
Gravity	Reflex save or target falls prone.

Arcane Surge	Target's next magical sphere effect gains +2 caster level. Lasts 1 round.
Petition	Grants +1 bonus on attack rolls and saving throws for 1 minute (as bless). One petition per target at a time.
Glimmer Veil	Target gains 20% concealment for 1 round per 2 CL (max 5).
Blood Ink	Bind to a creature by adding its blood to the ink. That creature counts as the bearer for range, targeting, or trigger purposes.
Mana-Infused Ink	Spend 1 spell point to increase DC of any ofuda effect by +1 and caster level by +2.
Psionically Charged	If you have power points, may expend them instead of spell points when activating ofuda talents.
Wardrobe	Bearer may instantly swap one worn item with a prepared alternate once per round (as quick change).
Storage	Grants a small extradimensional space (as type I handy haversack) within the ofuda. Max 20 lbs. Retrieving is a move action.

Ravager Arts (Ofuda)

The following Ravager Arts expand the Taoist's Ofuda capabilities. Each may be selected when she would normally gain a Ravager Art.

Extra Batch

You may craft 1 additional batch of ofuda per day. May be selected multiple times; effects stack.

Extra Modification

When crafting a batch, you may apply 1 additional modification to that batch even if it exceeds your normal per-ofuda maximum. May be selected multiple times; effects stack.

Runed Ofuda

You may apply (rune) talents from the Rune sphere to your ofuda, treating the ofuda as an appropriate surface or bearer. A rune inscribed on an ofuda triggers when it is thrown, affixed, or activated. Requires the Rune sphere.

Jeweled Ofuda

When crafting a batch, you may include one or more mundane or magical gemstones worth at least 50 gp. These function as material components for any sphere effects delivered via the ofuda and may fulfill expensive component costs where appropriate.

Control Ofuda

When a construct or undead creature bears or is struck by one of your ofuda, you may expend a spell point as a standard action to issue it a command (as command undead or control construct, as applicable). Will save resists (DC = sphere DC). Lasts 1 round per caster level. Requires the Death or Creation sphere to target undead or constructs respectively.

Mystic Alignment

You gain martial focus whenever you use an ofuda to successfully hit a creature with a ranged attack, or when you deliver a sphere ability through an ofuda that affects a creature.

Bound Ink

When creating a batch, you may bind it to a creature whose name, blood, or possession you have access to (GM discretion). Bound ofuda may affect that creature as if within range, ignoring line of sight and distance (up to 1 mile per caster level). Only one sympathetic link may be maintained at a time. Creating a new bound set severs the previous link.

Ink-Master's Precision

You gain ranks in Craft (Calligraphy) equal to your caster level, or your existing ranks increase by +2 (whichever is higher). For every 5 ranks in this skill, increase the DC of any save against an ofuda modification by +1 (max +3).

Phase-Scripted Ofuda

Ofuda you throw or affix ignore cover and concealment (but not total cover) for attacks or delivering effects. Once per round, you may throw an ofuda through a wall or door to strike a target you are aware of on the other side, as long as the path is not completely obstructed. This does not bypass magical barriers.

Inkflow Adept

You may craft ofuda as a move action instead of a full-round action or 1-minute ritual. Usable once per day, plus one additional time per 5 caster levels.

Mystical Approach

You may draw or retrieve an ofuda as a free action and may throw them using your casting ability modifier instead of Dexterity for ranged attack rolls. Additionally, you may deliver a sphere ability through a thrown ofuda as part of casting the ability (similar to delivering a touch spell).

Treasured Ofuda

You may bind effects from the Akashic or Treasure spheres to your ofuda as if they were worn items or objects. If using Akashic veils, the ofuda acts as a slotless item and counts against your veil limit. If using the Treasure sphere, you may assign minor treasure effects (costing no more than 100 gp per caster level) to a batch. Requires the appropriate sphere.

Spirit rosary

Spirit Rosary

Alternate Class Feature — Replaces Ofuda

Spirit Rosary (Su)

At 1st level, the Taoist manifests her spiritual power through a spirit rosary — a sacred focus object whose soul she has awakened through cultivation and discipline. The rosary consists of a pendant strung with prayer beads, each a facet of the rosary's living spirit expressing a different aspect of its power.

The rosary is always active. Its manifestations are suppressed while the Taoist is unconscious or within an antimagic field. The rosary cannot be disarmed, sundered, or enchanted as a normal item — it is an extension of the Taoist's soul.

Attunement

During a 1-hour ritual at the start of each day, the Taoist selects a number of beads equal to her Practitioner Ability Modifier from the Bead List below. No bead type may be selected more than once. Each selected bead's power is immediately available.

Swapping Beads

The Taoist may swap one active bead for another as a full-round action that provokes attacks of opportunity. She may not swap beads during combat.

Bead Attack (Su)

As a standard action, the Taoist may hurl a bead as a ranged spiritual projectile, making a ranged attack roll using her Practitioner Ability Modifier in place of Dexterity. The bead has a range of 25 ft + 5 ft per 2 Taoist levels. Alternatively, the Taoist may manifest the rosary around her fist and make a melee attack using her normal Strength modifier, following standard melee attack rules. The melee manifestation is treated as both a magic weapon and an unarmed strike for the purpose of feats and abilities.

Both modes deal damage based on the Taoist's class level as shown on the table below. Both count as magic weapons for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction. The bead reforms and returns to the rosary at the end of her turn.

When making a bead attack in either mode, the Taoist may trigger the power of one active bead as part of the attack. Offensive bead powers apply on a successful hit unless otherwise noted.

Class Level	Bead Damage
1st–4th	1d6
5th–8th	2d6
9th–12th	3d6
13th–16th	4d6
17th–20th	5d6

Bead Powers

Save DCs for bead powers are calculated as 10 + 1/2 Taoist level + casting ability modifier unless otherwise noted.

Ravager Arts (Rosary)

The following Ravager Arts are available to Taoist characters with the Spirit Rosary ACF.

Transcendence (Rosary)

Requires 11th level.

Once per day as a standard action, the Taoist enters a state of transcendent stillness. For a number of rounds equal to her caster level, she levitates slightly above the ground, her rosary beads orbiting her in a halo of spiritual light. While transcendent she cannot make attacks, cast sphere abilities, or take any action other than moving up to her base speed each round.

All allies within CL x 5 feet gain fast healing equal to the Taoist's casting modifier at the start of each of her turns. The Taoist herself benefits from this healing as normal. The transcendent state ends early if the Taoist is rendered unconscious.

Ryujin no Ken (Rosary)

Requires 13th level.

Once per day as a standard action, the Taoist calls forth a spiritual dragon from her rosary. The dragon coils around her, a manifestation of her accumulated cultivation given draconic form. It remains for a number of rounds equal to her caster level.

While the dragon is active, whenever the Taoist makes a melee bead attack, the dragon mirrors the strike as a free action, dealing 1d6 damage per 2 caster levels to the same target. This damage is not subject to damage reduction and cannot be negated by spell resistance. The dragon dissipates early if the Taoist is rendered unconscious.

Chapter: Bead List

The following beads are available to the Taoist. She selects a number of active beads equal to her Practitioner Ability Modifier during attunement each day. No bead may be selected more than once.

Lapis

Passive

The lapis bead pulses with a deep celestial blue, its surface threaded with veins of gold. It attunes the Taoist's strikes to the frequency of the spirit world, allowing her to reach what mortal hands cannot.

Your bead attacks gain the ghost touch property, allowing them to strike incorporeal creatures without miss chance. Against incorporeal targets, your bead attacks deal bonus damage equal to half your caster level.

Bone

Passive

The bone bead is pale and worn smooth, carved from the remains of a creature the Taoist has studied and overcome. It carries the memory of that creature's weaknesses, sharpening the Taoist's instincts against its kin.

During attunement, designate one creature type from the ranger's favored enemy list. You gain the favored enemy bonus against that type, scaling with your caster level: +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, +6 at CL 16. This bonus applies to attack rolls, damage rolls, and the associated Knowledge and Survival checks as normal for favored enemy.

Amber

Passive

The amber bead traps golden light within its depths, a reservoir of preserved spiritual energy that flows outward through every strike. The Taoist's cultivation finds its sharpest expression here — every attack carrying the full weight of her accumulated power.

You gain a bonus equal to your caster level on attack and damage rolls made with bead attacks, and on attack rolls made as part of sphere abilities.

Silver

Passive

The silver bead is cold to the touch and never tarnishes. It carries a purifying resonance that the corrupted and the shape-shifted cannot easily withstand, its light cutting through flesh that resists ordinary steel.

Your bead attacks are treated as silver for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction. Against lycanthropes, your bead attacks deal bonus damage equal to half your caster level.

Focus

Passive

The focus bead is a simple, unadorned sphere of polished crystal — almost plain compared to its companions. But its purpose is precise: it returns the Taoist's martial center to her the moment she strikes true.

Once per round, when you hit a creature with a bead attack, you regain martial focus if it is expended.

Amethyst

Active

The amethyst bead is deep violet, cool and still. It does not block the mind — it reflects it. Attempts to reach into the Taoist's thoughts find themselves turned back on the sender, the rosary's spirit acting as a mirror against intrusion.

When you are targeted by a mind-affecting effect, you may spend 1 spell point as an immediate action to attempt a Will save against the effect's DC. On a success, the effect is negated and reflected back at the originating creature, which becomes subject to its own effect using the original DC.

Glass

Passive/Active

The glass bead is perfectly transparent, a lens ground to impossible clarity. Through it, the hidden nature of magical things becomes apparent — their properties, their purposes, their secrets — all readable from a distance without need for touch or proximity.

You gain a bonus on Spellcraft checks to identify magic items and effects equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. You may make these checks at line-of-sight range without needing to handle or touch the item or effect.

Wood

Passive

The wood bead is carved from a branch of an ancient tree, its grain still warm and alive. The Taoist who carries it finds herself reading the land around her as naturally as breathing — the slope of a hillside, the age of a trail, the mood of the creatures that live there.

During attunement, designate one terrain type from the ranger's favored terrain list. You gain the favored terrain bonus in that terrain, scaling with your caster level: +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, +6 at CL 16. This bonus applies to initiative checks, Perception, Stealth, and Survival checks, and to Knowledge checks about that terrain, as normal for favored terrain.

Wax

Active

The wax bead is dull and malleable, soft enough to take an impression. When it strikes a target it hardens instantly, its spiritual weight pressing down on the creature's freedom of movement and stripping away its awareness of danger.

When you hit a creature with a bead attack, you may activate this bead. The target must succeed on a Will save or be held in place for 1 round, unable to move and treated as flat-footed for the duration.

Obsidian

Active

The obsidian bead is volcanic black, absorbing all light that touches it. Within it sleeps a shade — a fragment of spiritual force compressed to a point of pure destructive release. When the Taoist calls it forth, the shade does not negotiate. It runs, and it detonates.

As a standard action, spend 1 spell point to summon the shade spirit within this bead. It instantly charges a single target within range and explodes on impact, dealing 1d6 damage per 2 caster levels. This damage has no save and bypasses spell resistance. The shade cannot be intercepted, redirected, or blocked by anything short of total cover.

Bloodstone

Passive/Active

The bloodstone bead is dark green shot through with veins of deep red, the color of blood cooling on stone. It understands the transaction of violence — that life taken can sustain life, and that life offered willingly can strike harder than any weapon.

Your bead attacks are vampiric. Whenever you deal damage with a bead attack, you regain hit points equal to half the damage dealt. Additionally, as a swift action before making a bead attack, you may spend up to a number of hit points equal to your casting modifier. The attack deals bonus damage equal to the hit points spent.

Adamantine

Passive

The adamantine bead is dense and dark, almost too heavy for its size. It carries the indifference of the hardest material known — DR means nothing to it, hardness means nothing to it. What it strikes, it breaks through.

Your bead attacks are treated as adamantine for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction and bypassing hardness. Against creatures with DR/adamantine, your bead attacks deal bonus damage equal to half your caster level.

Limestone

Passive/Active

The limestone bead is pale and faintly rough, its surface pitted by ages of slow dissolution. It has witnessed more history than any living creature — pressed into its structure are the memories of ancient places, waiting for a cultivator skilled enough to read them.

You gain a bonus on Knowledge (history) and Knowledge (local) checks equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. Additionally, as a full-round action, you may touch a surface, object, or location and open your spiritual awareness to its past. The GM reveals a significant past event that occurred at or involving that place or object. Each unique location or object may only be read once — the same surface yields no further visions.

Pearl

Active

The pearl bead is luminous and cool, born from irritation and patience in equal measure. It carries a purifying resonance against the conditions that plague the body and spirit — not the grand corruptions, but the grinding ones that wear a warrior down in the heat of battle.

As a standard action, remove one of the following conditions from yourself or an adjacent ally: shaken, frightened, sickened, nauseated, dazzled, fatigued, exhausted, entangled, or staggered. You may use this ability a number of times per day equal to your casting modifier.

Steel

Passive/Active

The steel bead is plain and unblemished, a perfect sphere of refined discipline. It does not augment the Taoist's power so much as it steadies the foundation beneath everything else — her concentration unshakeable, her focus immovable even under the worst duress.

You gain a bonus on concentration checks equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. Additionally, as an immediate action when you are required to make a concentration check, you may double this bonus for that single check.

Black Onyx

Passive/Active

The black onyx bead drinks light and gives nothing back. It is a ward against endings — against the effects that reach past injury and damage and strike at existence itself. The rosary's spirit interposes itself between the Taoist and death, absorbing what it can.

You gain a bonus on saving throws against death effects equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. Additionally, once per day as an immediate action when you are targeted by a death effect, you may negate it entirely. The effect is absorbed by the bead and has no effect on you.

Jade

Active

The jade bead is imperial green, cold and heavy with authority. It carries the mandate of heaven — not merely as metaphor but as spiritual fact. When the Taoist invokes it, she speaks with the voice of celestial law, and spirits and outsiders find themselves bound by forces older than their own existence.

As a standard action, spend 1 spell point to invoke celestial authority against a spirit, outsider, or incorporeal creature within range. The target must succeed on a Will save or be bound — it cannot attack you or target you with abilities for a number of rounds equal to your caster level. A bound creature may act freely against other targets.

Gold

Active

The gold bead blazes with divine radiance, its surface too bright to look at directly. When the Taoist reaches for it she does not throw a bead — she hurls a spear of pure holy light, a javelin of celestial fire that pierces through the profane.

A number of times per day equal to your casting modifier, you may manifest this bead as a spear of divine light as part of a bead attack. The attack becomes a ranged touch attack dealing your normal bead damage as holy damage. Against evil creatures, the spear deals an additional 2d6 holy damage.

Sandalwood

Active

The sandalwood bead is warm and fragrant, its scent never fading. Sacred across traditions, it carries a purifying heat that burns away magical bindings and the lingering weight of curses — not through force but through a gentle dissolution.

As a standard action, remove one magical effect or curse from yourself or a creature within 30 feet. This functions as per remove curse using your caster level. Usable a number of times per day equal to your casting modifier.

Rudraksha

Active

The rudraksha seed is ancient and sacred, its surface marked with natural lines that converge like the meeting of divine forces. It carries the destructive essence of Shiva — not chaos, but necessary ending. The Taoist who invokes it does not hold back.

As part of a bead attack, spend 1 spell point to channel the destructive essence of this sacred seed into the strike. The attack deals bonus divine damage equal to your caster level. This damage is not subject to damage reduction or spell resistance.

Turquoise

Passive/Active

The turquoise bead is the blue of a high altitude sky, cool and clear. Worn by Tibetan monks against the poisons of the world, it stands between the Taoist and the corruptions that creep through blood and breath.

You gain a bonus on saving throws against poison and disease equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. Once per day as an immediate action when you would be affected by a poison or disease, you may negate it entirely. The effect is absorbed by the bead and has no effect on you.

Coral

Passive

The coral bead is blood red, dense with the compressed life force of the ocean floor. It does not augment the Taoist's power directly — it simply makes her more alive, her reserves deeper, her endurance longer.

While this bead is attuned, you gain bonus hit points equal to your caster level. These hit points are lost first when you take damage and are restored after 8 hours of rest.

Cinnabar

Active

The cinnabar bead is deep vermillion, the color of Taoist alchemy and transformation. Where Pearl removes, Cinnabar transmutes — it does not cleanse weakness but inverts it, turning what weighs the Taoist down into the very force that lifts her.

Once per day as a standard action, transmute one negative condition affecting yourself or an adjacent ally into its positive counterpart for a number of rounds equal to your caster level. Shaken becomes inspired (+2 morale bonus to attack rolls and saves), frightened becomes fearless (immune to fear effects), fatigued becomes invigorated (+2 bonus to Strength and Dexterity), exhausted becomes energized (as haste), sickened becomes fortified (+2 bonus to Fort saves), and nauseated becomes focused (may take any action normally).

Jet

Passive/Active

The jet bead is fossilized wood turned to deep black stone — ancient, heavy, carved from something that was once alive. It carries the weight of mourning and the steadiness that comes after grief, a ward against the fear that precedes endings.

You gain a bonus on saving throws against fear effects and nightmare-type abilities equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. Once per day as an immediate action when you would be affected by a fear effect or nightmare ability, you may negate it entirely. The effect is absorbed by the bead and has no effect on you.

Ivory

Passive/Active

The ivory bead is smooth and pale, carved from something ancient. It holds within it the perfect memory of everything it has witnessed — and in the hands of a cultivator, that quality becomes her own.

You gain a bonus on all Knowledge checks equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. You may make any Knowledge check untrained. Additionally, your memory becomes perfect while this bead is attuned — you perfectly recall anything you have personally witnessed, read, or been told, subject to GM discretion.

Copper

Active

The copper bead is warm and conductive, its surface faintly greenish with age. It does not hold power so much as channel it — a perfect conduit between the Taoist's spiritual reserves and the target of her strike.

As a standard action, you may channel a sphere ability through this bead as a spellstrike, replacing your normal bead attack. Make a bead attack roll as normal — on a hit, the attack deals its normal damage and the channeled sphere ability is delivered to the target simultaneously, as if it had been cast directly. The sphere ability costs spell points as normal.

Mother of Pearl

Passive/Active

The mother of pearl bead is iridescent and layered, catching light at angles that seem impossible. It carries an intuition older than thought — a sense of what is coming before it arrives, a readiness that cannot be caught off guard.

You gain a bonus on initiative checks equal to +2 at CL 1, +4 at CL 8, and +6 at CL 16. You are never caught flat-footed during a surprise round. As an immediate action when you would be struck by an attack, you may spend 1 spell point to make a Reflex save against a DC equal to the attack roll. On a success, the attack misses entirely.

Bodhi Seed

Passive/Active

The bodhi seed is plain and unassuming — the seed of the tree under which enlightenment was achieved. It does not announce itself. It simply sees. Everything.

While this bead is attuned, you continuously benefit from the effects of true seeing — you see through illusions, invisibility, disguises, and magical darkness as naturally as ordinary sight. Once per day as a standard action, you may open your enlightened perception fully. Ask the GM one question about any creature, object, or phenomenon you can currently observe. The GM must answer truthfully and as completely as the enlightenment allows.

Sacred brewmaster

Sacred Brewmaster Alternate Class Feature — Replaces Ofuda and all Ofuda Ravager Arts

Sacred Gourd (Su)

At 1st level, the Sacred Brewmaster manifests a personal enchanted gourd — an extension of her spiritual cultivation and the vessel through which she channels inner transformation. The gourd cannot be sundered or disarmed; it is an expression of her soul.

She may prepare a number of brews per day equal to her caster level or BAB, whichever is higher. Each brew may contain a number of soaks up to her per-brew maximum, shown on the table below. Brewing requires 10 minutes per brew, +5 minutes for each soak beyond the second. Drinking a brew is a standard action unless modified by a talent. A brew's effects only activate when she drinks it, unless a talent states otherwise.

Soaks per Brew

Class Level Max Soaks

1st–4th	1
5th–9th	2
10th–14th	3
15th–19th	4
20th	5

She knows a number of soaks equal to 3 + her casting ability modifier (minimum 3). She selects her known soaks from the Soak List below at 1st level and may learn additional soaks through Sacred Brewmaster Ravager Arts.

Soak List

#	Soak	Effect
1	Jade Lotus Seeds	Heals HP equal to $\frac{1}{4}$ class level (min 1).
2	Iron Ball	+2 alchemical bonus to AC, 1 minute.
3	Bones	Temp HP = $\frac{1}{2}$ caster level, 1 min/CL.
4	Copper Pill	Immunity to disease for 24 hours.
5	Snake	Poison resistance = CL, 1 minute.
6	Laurel Buds	Healing in this brew increases by 50%.
7	Dragon Scales	Immunity to one element (chosen at prep) for 1 round/CL.
8	Elemental Essence	Next attack deals +1d6 elemental damage (chosen at prep).
9	Turtle Tear	Regain 1 spell point.
10	Peach	Remove 1d4 ability damage.
11	Death Stinger	Next attack poisons target (Fort DC = 10 + $\frac{1}{2}$ CL + casting mod).
12	Blood	Vampiric: heal $\frac{1}{2}$ damage dealt on next attack.

13	Soul	See invisibility for 1 minute.
14	Spice	+2 Perception and +2 Initiative, 1 minute.
15	Smoke	Gain scent + 20% concealment vs. ranged attacks, 1 minute.
16	Pixie Dust	Fly speed 30 ft., 1 round/CL.
17	Dragon bone Powder	+2 Strength or Constitution for 1 minute; increases to +4 at CL 10.
18	Celestial Nectar	Fast Healing 1 (1 round/CL). Stacks with Jade Lotus Seeds and Medicinal Brew.
19	Liquid Emotion	Choose one morale effect: Courage (+2 morale to saves vs. fear and +2 to Will), Joy (+2 morale to Cha-based checks and initiative), or Rage (+2 morale to attack and damage, –2 AC). Duration 1 min/CL.

Sacred Brewmaster Ravager Arts

The following Ravager Arts are available exclusively to Taoist characters with the Sacred Brewmaster ACF, replacing all Ofuda Ravager Arts on her list.

Extra Soak Learn one additional soak from the Soak List. May be selected multiple times.

Medicinal Brew Your brews can heal. Each brew you drink restores 1d6 HP per 2 caster levels (min 1d6) and removes one condition (fatigued, sickened, or shaken). Stacks with healing soaks.

Rejuvenating Brew Requires Medicinal Brew. Your healing brews linger. Heal an additional ¼ your class level at the start of each of your turns for 3 rounds after drinking. Stacks with Medicinal Brew and healing soaks.

Quickbrew Once per day, plus one additional time per 5 caster levels, you may prepare a single brew as a move action instead of the standard 10-minute ritual.

Combat Drinker You may drink a brew as a swift action. Once per round, when you score a critical hit or reduce a foe to 0 HP, you may drink a brew as an immediate action without provoking attacks of opportunity, and without needing a free hand.

Share the Gourd Your brews may benefit an adjacent ally instead of yourself when you drink them. The ally receives all effects as if they were the drinker. The restriction against non-Brewmaster drinkers applies normally — you are channeling the effect through the ally, not giving them the brew.

Infused Vintage Cost: 1 spell point. Up to 3 soaks in a brew have their numeric effects increased by 50%. Declared at time of brewing.

Aged Vintage Double the preparation time of a brew. That brew's durations last 50% longer and its healing or damage effects gain +1d6.

Spirit Draught Your brews carry guardian resonance. While under the effects of a brew, you gain a +1 sacred bonus to AC and saving throws for each active soak in that brew (max +5). This bonus does not stack across multiple brews — use the highest soak count.

Channel Brew Requires Channel Energy. When you drink a brew, you may channel energy as part of the same standard action. Both effects resolve simultaneously.

Blessed Vintage Imbue a brew with divine authority. Your next melee or ranged attack after drinking gains the holy or unholy property (chosen at preparation). Duration: 1 round/CL.

Brewmaster's Nose You can identify the contents of any liquid by smell. Instantly know which soaks are present in any brew. Detect if a drink is poisoned, altered, or magical. Gain a +4 insight bonus on checks to identify potions and alchemical liquids. Gain scent, but only for liquids.

Bound demon

20 Ağustos 2026 Perşembe 07:14

This feature replaces Channel Energy.

At 1st level, the Taoist binds two demons. She gains additional bound demons according to the Blade Monarch's Echoes progression, treating her Taoist level as her Blade Monarch level. Each bound demon otherwise uses the Echo Progression Table, with Echo terminology replaced by Bound Demon terminology.

Only one bound demon may be active at a time. The Taoist may switch her active bound demon as a swift action. While active, the bound demon grants every power it has unlocked at the Taoist's current class level.

When activating a bound demon, the Taoist chooses whether to possess it, gaining its abilities through her own body, or manifest it as a spiritual projection. Changing between possession and manifestation is a swift action. Manifestation does not grant the demon independent actions or a separate resource economy unless one of its abilities expressly says otherwise.
